

Mine War Continues In Mingo

Miners Determined To Fight It Out Until Federal Troops Reach Scene

BATTLE PLANES WINGING TOWARD THE FIGHTING

Number Of Casualties In The Morning
Fighting Unknown. Thirty Reported Killed In Charge On Machine Gun

The battle along the border of Boone and Logan counties, West Virginia, where an army of miners now numbering over 5,000 have advanced against an army of deputies and armed citizens holding the Spruce Fork ridge, is apparently to be fought out until Federal troops arrive.

Attacks are hourly reported and the miners are said to have lost thirty men who were killed in an attempt to rush a machine gun nest. Fifteen battle planes from Langley Field, Va., have been dispatched to the scene by the Federal government.

The miners are prepared to welcome the arrival of Federal troops. They consider they have won a victory if the government takes over the control of the southwest counties.

Re ports at headquarters at Charleston say the miners are retiring, but reports from Madison and Ethel indicate the miners have been heavily re-enforced and the fighting is continuing at many points.

Communication Cut Off.

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 1.—Communication between Charleston and Logan, threatened by the miners' attack, was cut off shortly after noon today. Reports reaching here before the attack of communication closed were conflicting. Advice to the government said the situation was quiet throughout the morning while advice from other sources were that intermittent fighting had been in progress and a number of casualties resulted.

Miners Reported Withdrawing.

Williamson, W. Va., Sept. 1.—Miners massed for a fight along the Logan-Boone county line began withdrawing shortly before noon, Sheriff Don Chafin, of Logan county, advised officials here today. Chafin said his scout airplanes earlier in the day detected a mass meeting near Blair Mountain. Shortly afterwards the miners' forces began withdrawing and the scouts reported their movement might indicate they were dispersing.

Chafin told authorities here, however, that he feared a ruse and intended to strengthen his guards. He said he doubted seriously if the miners would actually retire until federal investigation was assured.

Reported Fifty Killed.

One report received here from Chafin said advice he received today were that fifty miners had fallen in three skirmishes along the Logan-Boone county sector yesterday. Officials here had no other report of such casualties.

Ethel, W. Va., Sept. 1.—Deputy sheriffs posted in the mountains near Logan reported thirty miners killed in the Crooked Creek and Blair Mountain battles yesterday and last night, according to reports of air scouts arriving here today. The fliers reported a steady stream of miners re-enforcements moving into the battle zone.

Three of yesterday's dead were today identified as John Gore, of Ethel; John Cajazo, of Holden, and Jim Munsey, of Ethel. All were deputy sheriffs.

Believe 5,000 Miners Massed For Attack.

Madison, W. Va., Sept. 1.—Re-enforcements are passing through Boone county today on their way to the Logan county border. It is believed at least 5,000 are massed on the border.

Miners refuse to disclose their casualty lists. However, they estimate their dead at about thirty. A detachment attacked a machine gun nest near Clothier early today, it was said. Forty or more were killed or wounded there. The miners have established a field hospital at Clothier. All train service in this vicinity has been suspended except where miners commandeer trains to carry them to the battle zone.

Fighting In Progress This Morning.

Ethel, W. Va., Sept. 1.—Deputies under Sheriff Don Chafin, posted in the mountain passes north of here, have battled almost continuously since dawn yesterday. It was learned at the State police headquarters here today.

There was no lull during the night and the fighting was still in progress this morning according to the reports.

In the distance sporadic rifle firing can be heard, with little abatement. This was broken only by a sputter of machine gun fire, presumably from one of the outposts. It was believed, from the volume of firing that there has been greater loss of life than has been reported. The number of casualties is being carefully held secret by men on both sides for fear it would tend to show a weakening. Nearly all lines of communication in this district are totally or partially impaired.

Airplanes On Way.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—A squadron of airplanes has been dispatched today to the fighting area in West Virginia, Secretary of War Weeks announced this morning. Armed intervention by the Federal Government appeared certain today.

As Secretary Weeks reached his office this morning reports from West Virginia indicated the miners are continuing to defy President Harding's command that they disperse and fighting was still going on in the mine war area.

President Harding and Secretary Weeks are determined that force will be the next step to be taken to quell the outlaw fight in West Virginia.

Service Men Jeer Sheriff.

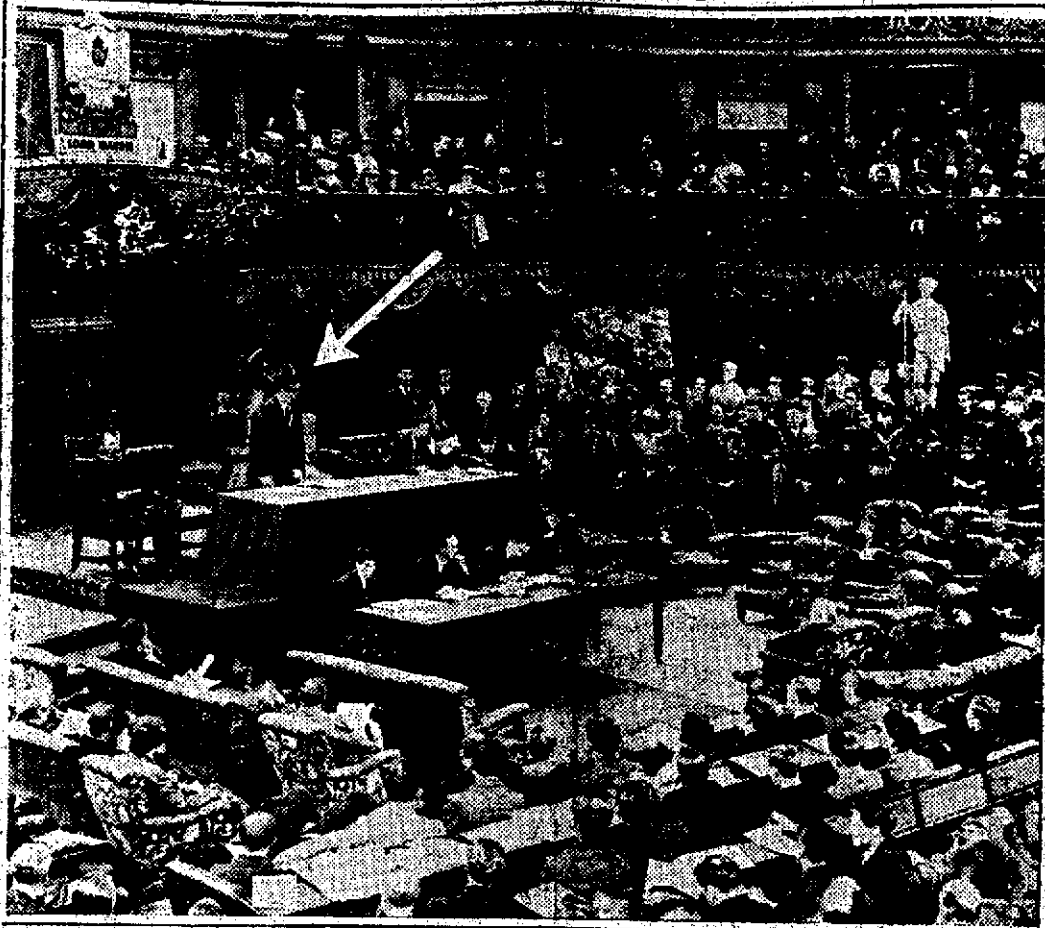

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 1.—Efforts to recruit a large body of former service men to fight union miners marching into Logan county, failed. A meeting of the American Legion to effect a defense organization was held next door to the executive mansion of Governor Morgan. It broke up with cat calls and jeers for speakers favoring such an organization, and with the singing of "We'll hang Don Chafin to a sour apple tree."

Confident of Defense Until Troops Arrive.

Logan, W. Va., Sept. 1.—Confidence that the miners' army will be held in check until the arrival of Federal troops after a declaration of martial law, was expressed by deputies in charge of the Logan county defense today. Scattered firing was reported throughout the night but so far as is known the defense line has not been penetrated.

First Picture—De Valera Addressing Irish Parliament

This is the first picture to reach America of the historic peace session of Dail Eireann, the Irish Parliament, in Dublin, listening to De Valera's address explaining the results of his peace conferences with Lloyd George. Arrow points to De Valera. Seated on his right, Lord Mayor O'Neill of Dublin. In front of the speaker are the official reporters. Just below the far gallery is the distinguished visitors' enclosure, crowded by American visitors, archbishops and bishops and Irish leaders not members of the Dail. In the foreground, at the little desks with paper before them, are the members of the Dail.

Dublin, Ireland, Sept. 1.—The reply of the Dail Eireann to the latest British note was forwarded last night to Premier Lloyd George, it was officially announced today. Special Irish couriers carried the reply direct to the British premier in Scotland.

The text of the reply would not be given out here until some word had been received from Lloyd George, it was said. Nevertheless the reply has not ended negotiations unless the British government insists on breaking them off, it was claimed.

BROTHERS MEET AFTER FORTY YEAR PARTING

J. C. Johnson, of Grampian, returned from Edgewater, New Jersey, whither he had gone to meet his brother, James Johnson, who arrived in this country from Scotland June 9th last.

It was the first meeting of the brothers in forty years. They parted in 1881 at Bathgate, Scotland when J. C. set sail for America. He located in the Phillipsburg region, qualified as an expert mine foreman, and has since been identified with the Clearfield Coal region.

The meeting of the brothers after forty years was a particularly happy one and James promised to come up into Clearfield county in the near future.

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
(United Press Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—Hope of entirely abolishing war is "perfectly futile" President Harding told officers at the Army War College here today. Armies and navies will probably always be necessary, he said, no matter how far aspirations toward world peace lead.

The President blamed lack of understanding for the warfare in West Virginia and declared a policy of understanding both at home and abroad would solve many of the world's ills.

FRONT STREET "FARMER" AFTER CORN PRIZE

Expects To Pull Down
The Ribbon With
'Outlaw' Specimen.

VARIETY OF CORN
IS YET UNKNOWN

"Farmer" Bill Hoover of Front street and his father Zack expect to carry off the blue ribbon in field corn at the Fair this year and from a specimen stock standing in their garden one is led to believe that Bill can raise the long green in gardens as well as by selling gilt edged bonds. Bill is a former Bradford township man, out there from whence nearly all the good people of Clearfield come, and he is naturally quite proud of his outlaw corn. The stock grew up with his beet plants and received no special cultivation, yet it has attained a height of better than ten feet and has a cluster of five wonderfully large well developed ears more than five feet from the ground. Three of the ears are abnormally large while the twins are still growing. Dad Hoover is zealously watching the stock to see that the wind does not blow it over. What variety it is no one has been able to say.

SENATE TAX EXPERTS IN THE DARK

By L. C. MARTIN
United Press Correspondent

Washington, Sept. 1.—Senate tax experts are as completely in the dark as to what next year's taxes will be as the most obscure taxpayer in the country, it was admitted here today as the Senate Finance Committee took up the tax bill.

So complete was the lack of information by committee members that the first step proposed was a reading of bill passed by the House. The House Bill, senators said, must be vitally changed. It doesn't produce enough money, but in addition leaves taxes too high, they complained. Most of the Republican members of the committee are waiting for Senator Penrose, chairman of the committee, to outline its program.

AUTO TRIP RESULTS IN DEATH FROM DREADED TYPHOID

LOCAL MEN DRINK FROM

WILLIAM KLINE DIES IN HOSPITAL

William Russell Kline, son of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Kline, of Nichols street, died at 11 o'clock Clearfield hospital Tuesday night after a brief illness as the result of an attack of typhoid fever.

The deceased, who was a bricklayer, had been working at Barnesboro this summer and a couple of weeks ago accompanied William Kramer of the West Side, who was working with him, on an automobile trip from Barnesboro into the Cherry Tree country. While near Cherry Tree they drank from a wayside spring and both contracted severe cases of typhoid. Mr. Kramer also being a patient at the hospital.

William R. Kline was born in Clearfield on April 24th, 1886, and was therefore in his 35th year. He was an industrious, hard-working man and a good citizen.

He was unmarried, and is survived by his parents and four brothers, Lloyd, of California; Paul and Don, of Clearfield, and Hazard, of Brookville. The funeral will be held from his parents' home at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Interment in Hillcrest cemetery.

VALUED MURDER AT 11 A DAY

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Sept. 1.—A dollar a day is the value set on her husband's society by Mrs. John Cooper, 65, who is suing for a divorce. Mrs. Cooper wants a separation and $250 from her husband, John, 77, who, she claims, left her 250 days.

Assessors of County Districts Will All Be On Job To Register Voters

The assessors of the different districts in Clearfield county will be at their respective election houses on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 6th and 7th, for the purpose of registering voters who desire to vote at the Fall election in November.

The registration for the uniform primary of course is already made, but the election law requires the assessors to be at the several election houses sixty days previous to the November election in order that electors, male and female, who may have been missed or moved into the district since the last preceding registration day, may have an opportunity to get their names placed upon the list for the November election.

As an evidence of the requirements and to show what is expected of the assessors we append hereto the notice sent out by the County Commissioners for their guidance.

It is the duty of the assessor to be present at the election house of his district on September 6th and 7th, 1921, from 10 o'clock a. m. to 8 o'clock p. m. and from 8 o'clock a. m. to 9 o'clock p. m. of each of said days, for the purpose of registering. Original lists by adding names of persons entitled to vote and deleting names of persons who have died or removed from your district, and on the following day, September 7th, 1921, you will make return of this Original List, thus revised and completed, by mail to the County Commissioners.

THREE LOCAL FIRMS MAKE CHANGES IN PERSONNEL

Two Drug Stores And One
Real Estate Firm Admit Employees To Partnership.

The past week has seen many important moves in the business life of Clearfield and not the least important of these are the additions to three old established firms, in young men. In addition to good sized real estate deals changes of partnership, and owners have taken place in the firms of Helmbold and Stewart, Irwin Drug Company and the A. M. Thatcher Drug Store.

Last week there was admitted a partnership in Helmbold & Stewart Co., Mr. Wm. D. Reading, a former member of the C. H. S. faculty, who after leaving here was with the Bethlehem Steel Co., and after that insurance in the city of Philadelphia Mr. Reading is a well equipped young man who is no stranger to Clearfield, his wife being a daughter of W. J. Dufton. His boundless energy thorough training and pleasing personality will bring much to the firm of Helmbold and Stewart.

Yesterday morning Mr. Hobar White became a member of the Irwin Drug Co., he having bought the interest of Cecil Bloom. Mr. White was prescription compounder at the Stewart Drug Co. He has been resident of Clearfield for about two years during which time he has made for himself a host of friends who wish him success in his business venture.

This morning Cecil B. Bloom became the proprietor of the A. M. Thatcher Drug Store on Second street. Mr. Bloom has been identified with the Irwin Drug Company for about eight years and has won a distinct place in the civic and business life of the city. Very much interested in church work, he has, by his personal sacrifices and endeavors, won the hearty respect and esteem of citizens generally. Mr. Bloom is very attentive to business and he will maintain the well known reputation of the Thatcher store for courteous treatment and dealings.

It is understood Mr. Thatcher will temporarily retire from business and will go west. Mr. Thatcher is a fine type of citizen and Clearfield will be sorry to lose him. His work in behalf of the various war activities is well and favorably remembered. He could always be depended upon to lend a hand in every civic enterprise.

whom he had come to see on some

"But surely," said the vicar, "you rule of life?"

"No, I do not," replied the man at-

The vicar rang his bell. "John,"
said he to his servant, "show this man

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS CURWENSVILLE

Some folks have misunderstood announcements made heretofore regarding the American Legion celebration on Labor Day and are said to be under the impression that no charge for admission to the grounds will be made.

Officials in charge of the celebration vehemently deny this, stating that while no campaign for donations has been made among merchants of Cur-wensville, it will be necessary to charge a gate admission to defray the expenses of the affair.

The Field Meet.
One of the big features of the Labor Day celebration at Curwensville will be the field meet at the Athletic Park medal; 2nd prize, silver medal.

ver medal; 2nd prize, bronze medal.

cash; 2nd prize, $1.00 cash.
Blind men's boxing contest—contestants to receive $2.00 each.

All entry blanks should be in the hands of F. P. Robinson no later than Friday.

In addition to the athletic events,
the Hon. J. S. Fisher, State Banking Commissioner and prominent speaker, will deliver an address on a timely and interesting subject.

Fred Mullen expects to leave Cur-wensville on or about the first of September for a term in the Temple University at Philadelphia, taking up a thorough business course as well as several other studies akin to his liking. He is a graduate of the Curwensville High school of the class of 1921, and has every indication that he will make good in his schooling at Temple. He is a musician of some note and the orchestra and band of which he is a valuable member will miss him greatly during his absence.

Mr. David Hile has gone up into the wilds of Cambria county this week to look after some coal and im-ber lands formerly owned by John Hippis and Uriah Lloyd, both deceased. Although Mr. Hile is not the regular administrator, he is authorized as a custodian to look after the sale and disposal of both the coal and timber on the above mentioned tract.

It is generally supposed that the Labor Day sports will be held out on the Pee Wee's Nest grounds, a general picnic preceding them. We have been asked to make a correction of this report. All games will take place on Athletic grounds on west side of the iron bridge and that there will be no regular picnic connected with the day's proceedings at all, only by those who wish to take their dinner out to the grove and make a private affair of it.

Circulating round about and over the outskirts of the borough yesterday, the writer was surprised to discover that there had been mighty little new building taken place during the summer. The high price of lumber and carpenter wages was one of the principal reasons given, while the slump of work all around was added as the second reason. A number of persons had planned to erect new houses but under the prevailing circumstances were compelled to abandon the idea until such a time as work and money became a little more plentiful and would warrant them to proceed in building new homes.

strange fact, but nervous and stomach ills are usually found together, and they are likewise the cause of much misery.

part of the training of our public schools. Gradually the need of practical knowledge of the principles of government has made itself felt, and text books on political economy are now common in many public schools.
Ignorance of practical politics is,
however, one of the causes which today makes a large proportion of our people mere tools in the hands of manipulators and sharpers. The political training of the future will be broad. Not only will the characteristics of our own and other governments be studied but care will be taken that the student has familiarity with the rise and growth of parties, the underlying causes which fostered affiliations and caused divisions. And why should not these matters so closely connected with the general history of a country be studied. With a largely increased foreign population the necessity of such action will become more evident
as time goes by. To all educationalists this matter should possess an interest.

We overheard a lady friend of ours
express herself in this novel fashion
the other evening. "Some men wear their best trousers out in the knees in winter, getting religion, and the seats of their pants out in the summer backsliding." Wonder what sort of an explanation she would advance for the women folks along the same lines?

The reign of political succession in office does not strike pleasantly on the ears of many Curwensville voters.

F. E. McKenzie, of Curwensville, has resigned his position with the American Tobacco Company and aligned himself with the Reid Tobacco Company and will work out of Altoona in the Cumberland Valley.

Mrs. G. W. Weaver, who has been spending a month at Chautauqua Lake, returned to Curwensville Tuesday where she will spend the next month visiting with old friends. It is likely that she and her sister, Miss Ella, will return to the Coast after the first of October.

This spring the business men entered into an agreement to close their stores every Thursday afternoon and also from six p. m. every week day.
This agreement was to have run until August 25th. Whether the merchants will hold a meeting and resolve to continue to abide by the old resolution
yet a while had not been decided yet, but there is some talk of them so doing.

shape to resume operations in a short time now. Several car loads of hides are expected to arrive any day now.

Percy E. Smith has taken the con-

New Millport Tuesday evening. He was engaged in housing a large traction engine away for the night. A boy was with him and remained on the machine. The wheels of the truck did not hit the doorway exactly and Owens called to the boy to turn the steering gear slightly. He attempted to do so, but something broke about it which allowed the truck to run backwards, striking Owens, knocking him down and the wheels passing over him. Dr. Erhard was immediately summoned and found that some ribs had been fractured, his shoulder and hip seriously bruised, making very painful wounds.

Mrs. Raymond Sipes is confined to her home on Pine street suffering from stomach trouble and also a slight touch of the flu.

Everywhere you go on the streets or in stores you hear nothing but rough election matters discussed and who will be final winner, Haines or Erhard. It seems to be a sort of mixed up affair and the election of a good conservative man to that office is creating more interest among the voters than it has for a number of years past. Party affiliations are going to be laid aside for once and voters are going to vote for the man and not the office. Both Haines and Erhard are good men and are perfectly capable of filling the office acceptably, and it is going to be nip and tuck to which the plum will fall. Considerable discussion is being held on the council election, five to be elected with nearly a dozen candidates in the field,
each wanting to serve on the board.
We predict that it will be one of the busiest primaries that has been held in Curwensville for a good many years. May the best man win.

From present indications the rooms in several of our public school buildings will be overcrowded this winter, which will necessitate the hiring of a suitable room in some part of the town in order that all of the pupils can be taken care of properly without giving a number of them half day sessions only as was done for a season
last year.

Almost every housewife on lower Walnut street and Grampan road is complaining of the vast clouds of dust that are being thrown in front of their homes by passing automobiles. On some porches along this route, dust to the depth of from three to six inches will accumulate in a few hours' time.
It is a shame that this should be,
but we can see no way out of it until a rain falls and settles the dust and makes it too heavy to fly with every little breeze.

J. M. McKinley, who has been on

A number of agriculturists in this end of the township have already commenced to cut corn and put in shocks, claiming that the crop has ripened sufficiently to warrant their going ahead and getting ready for

Where the Cypress Grows.
The cypress tree grows in swampy districts in the southeastern section of the United States. About forty per cent of the present available supply is in Louisiana and about twenty-five per cent in Florida. The remainder is scattered through the states that border the Atlantic, the Gulf of Mexico and the lower course of the Mississippi.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE TRAVELING FLOWERS.

"I've a story to tell you," said Mother Nature one day to her children. "We'd like to hear the story," said the ferns.

"So would we," said the wild flowers. "And we would, too," said the garden flowers.

"We love to hear anything you have to tell us," said the shrubs. "What are you going to tell us today?"

"My story," said Mother Nature, "is about some traveling flowers.

"A great, great, great many years ago, oh, so many, many, many years ago, there were not so many big cities as there are now.

"There was more room everywhere and people almost all had gardens and flowers and could walk just a little distance and gather all the wild flowers they wanted.

"But the cities grew up and somehow, without meaning to, I'm sure, the flowers were pushed out of the way.

"Many of the people missed the flowers and the ferns and the shrubs and the Nature children. But they couldn't do the work they had to in the city and have gardens, too, for there wasn't any room in the city for the gardens. Some of them worked in the city and had their homes in the country, but many more had to be in the city all the time.

"Cheer Them Up."

"And city after city grew up in just this way. Well, as I have said, the Nature children were greatly missed, though the people tried not to feel too badly about leaving the Nature children.

"They still loved the Nature children and the Nature children still loved them and understood how things were.

"Well, when the springtime came along one year, after so many cities had grown bigger and bigger and so many people had gone to live in the cities, the Nature children called me and said:

"Dear Mother Nature, we have something to ask you."

"What have you to ask me? I said and then they told me.

"Mother Nature," they said, "the Dream King has told us that many, many people from the cities would be out in the country places for holidays and for week-ends this spring.

"So we have thought up a plan. You see, the Dream King tells us that every once in a while the people get very tired from all the business they must do and all the studying they must do, too.

"They get tired of the same old talk of business and of studying. They get tired of talking of how much rent they must pay and where they can possibly find room to store away some jam and preserves from the country, which has been sent to them.

"They get tired of all their worries which they have. The Dream King says they have lots of fun, too, and that city life is very pleasant, but that every once in a while they long for the country and the flowers and the smell of the nice old earth and of the blossoms.

"So we've decided we would look out very best all the time, so that when the people from the cities come out to see us they may pick some of us and take us home with them so we'll cheer them up."

"I told them I thought their idea was wonderful. And ever since then the flowers have all looked their best and the shrubs have all looked their best and the ferns have all looked their best, so they could cheer up the city people when they were taken back after holidays.

"The Sun, too, has worn handsome suits for the people to admire. He can't be taken back with them, but he can show them his beautiful golden-colored suit and his suit of many colors, for he says they've hardly time to look at him in the city's very often.

"And the birds have sung their prettiest songs to give the city people real country holidays.

"But the flowers which have traveled to the cities have done a great, great deal to add to the holidays of the city people, and have stayed fresh and bright in the city apartments for just as long as they could.

"So when any of you are picked and carried to the cities, keep your prettiest and freshest smiles on your faces."

And they all promised Mother Nature they would.

All-Occasion Coats

IT IS a real pleasure to make a little excursion among the new coats for spring. Manufacturers appear to have discovered that good lines, above all things, are imperative and, starting out with this advantage, spring coats follow the beckoning of the mode to paths of simplicity and gentility. There are diverse styles—polo coats, motor coats and coats that answer for many purposes—but grace of line and good judgment in development are revealed in all of them.

The most interesting coats are those designed to make the most of every opportunity for service, the dependable models that fit in almost anywhere and are smart enough to give their wearers the assurance of being well dressed. They have an accent of economy that appeals to women of good judgment and appear in several types in the new displays. Black satin and black tulle among them are distinguished and versatile affairs that answer many purposes. They vie with snappy sports and motor coats in their spirited styles, but cannot be quite so useful to their owners as cloth coats like those shown in the picture. These two spring models are graceful, voluminous and new.

Gowns of Distinction

AFTERNOON frocks of cotton and other crepes, and those of tulle and silk, occupy so much of fashion's horizon that it takes unusual qualities in others to attract attention. Crepes and tulle are the rule, proven by such handsome exceptions as are pictured above. These are gowns that employ heavy fancy weaves in silks, which manufacturers vary each year and christen with new names. They are highly lustrous with rough surfaces and most effective in two colors or tones, by which means figured, brocaded and changeable effects are achieved.

The gown at the right is almost a straight-line model with skirt arranged in alternating draped and embroidered panels, gathered in about the bottom. Its outlines are misleading, for they convey an impression of simplicity in a model that reveals a most intricate and somewhat intricate drapery in the skirt.

The bodice fastens on the shoulder and forms its own little after the most approved manner for blouses or bodices. Just the right hat and veil are worn with it to finish off a costume of much distinction.

The gown at the left employs a two-color silk, with plain georgette and lace to make the most formal of afternoon frocks. The skirt adheres to the mode of tines with uneven lengths as an asset emphasized by wide lace flounces, dyed to match the dominant color in the silk. The bodice opens in a long "V" at the front over a vestee of georgette and georgette also makes the soft elbow sleeves.

Among new arrivals there are a great many frocks of tulle made up in combination with cotton fabrics—as embroidered batiste, plain organdy and fine gingham. These are for informal afternoon wear and strike a new note in the adaptability of this perennial favorite among silks.

A New Fad.

One of the proudest little fads is to embroider your colored handkerchiefs with the flower of your favorite perfume. A quaint little basket, usually in black or a very bright color, is done first in solid embroidery, and then the flower suggested carried out in the new punch work. A black basket with violets on a handkerchief of tan was seen. Roses, lilies of the valley or any other flower may be done in the same way, bearing in mind that the brighter the contrasting colors the smarter the effect.

THE JEW AS A PATRIOT

The records of the Revolutionary Army are incomplete and there is no way of discovering how many Jews fought in the Colonial armies. However the names of at least twenty-seven Jewish officers of various ranks are preserved, and Haym Solomon advanced $200,000 to the patriot cause through Robert Morris, Supt. of Finance.

In the Civil War it appears that over 7,500 Jews fought in the Northern and Southern armies, a larger number in proportion to the number of Jews who were then in the United States, about 150,000, than was furnished by any other religious denomination; seven Jews received medals of honor from Congress for conspicuous gallantry. Of staff officers who were Jews, forty for mentioned; there were eleven Jewish naval officers. There were nine generals, eighteen colonels, eight lieutenant-colonels, forty majors, two hundred and four captains, three hundred and twenty-five lieutenants.

For the Spanish-American War 2,451 Jews enlisted in the army and forty-two in the navy; thirty-two were officers.

CAN'T BLAME IT ALL ON PROHIBITION

Revolt against tradition and authority has sprung up not only in the political state, but in music, art, poetry and commerce until the age has become "pre-eminently one of sham and counterfeit," James M. Beck, solicitor general of the United States, declared before the American Bar association.

"The statistics of our criminal courts in recent years show an unprecedented growth in crime," Mr. Beck said. "But this revolt against authority is not confined to the political state. In music, its fundamental canons have been thrown aside and discord has replaced harmony. Its culmination—jazz—is a musical crime."

Dr. Hogan also adds that "within another generation the allotted threescore years and ten will be a thing of the past."

NOT TO KNOW IS NO EXCUSE

To Know How to Keep Well Is Better Than to Call in a Doctor to Get Well. Sickness Is a Penalty Not an Accident.

One of the best and most dependable and important preventives of getting sick, one of the surest ways of keeping well is to form and maintain the exceedingly good habit of regular, thorough, daily bowel evacuation.

"That is Nature's 'best bet.' You should do your best to help Nature, not hinder her in her efforts to keep you well. With the best of good intentions you may employ many methods. Strong, drastic acting medicines that force the bowels to act simply replace one evil by another evil. It may secure temporary action but it produces more than temporary irritation and other bad effects. Don't judge by promise in selecting a simple remedy to assist Nature. Performance is the true test. Take Beecham's for example.

Over 70 years ago people began to take Beecham's. Today millions of people all over the world take Beecham's, recommend Beecham's to their friends, hand the use of Beecham's down from father to son or from mother to daughter for generation after generation. That means much. You never hear any unfavorable criticism or complaint regarding Beecham's. That means much if not more. It takes real merit to withstand the tests of time and trial.

You can do much to help Nature keep you well by keeping a box of Beecham's in the house, ready for use at the first warning of disorder or derangement. All druggists sell Beecham's—are glad to sell Beecham's.

A Place To Live In--

Or Just A Work Shop

Grandmother made her own soap, salted and smoked her own meats, baked her own bread, and did her own washing.

She had a great reputation as a housekeeper, but her home was half as livable as those we dwell in today.

The modern home-maker regards the home as a place in which to live, rather than a workshop or a factory.

Good housekeeping today consists of taking advantage in the most economical and efficient way of the house-keeping helps which science and invention offer.

And foremost among these is the modern laundry—an institution which relieves you of all the toil and drudgery of wash-day.

Let us show you how much we can lighten your housework, how many tasks we can take off your hands, and how much more time we can give you for your family.

We clean everything that is washable, thoroughly and aseptically, and charge for our service is most reasonable.

Great Britain is facing today what the United States faced in the early '60's of the last century—civil war. Lloyd George recognizes this fact, for in a recent address to Commons he declared:

"I am proud that Great Britain has arisen above all prejudices and proposed terms such as have never been proposed before," the prime minister said. "They are terms which commend themselves not only to Great Britain, but to the whole civilized world. I trust common sense will prevail.

Whatever our views are, we cannot countenance separation. We can no more countenance the tearing up of the United Kingdom than America could countenance the tearing up of the United States. Severance would lead in Ireland itself to civil war.

"If southern Ireland is not satisfied with freedom, then I fear all hope of accommodation must be abandoned. We only want to do what is fair, just and right. If Ireland has a right to separation, so has Scotland and so has Wales, but no Welsh or Scotch patriot would ever dream of demanding separation.

"I believe that when the Irish people realize the sense of the freedom which is theirs, that real freedom is offered them, and that all they are asked to do is to come into the proudest community of nations in the world as free men, I believe you will find that that gifted people will realize that their destiny is greater—a free people inside a free federation of peoples."

The Shade Tree Commission is to be congratulated upon the manner in which they are improving upper Witmer Park. This park has long been allowed to remain neglected and an eyesore to the town, instead of being the beauty spot it was intended to be and which it soon will be when the plans of the public spirited men making up the Shade Tree Commission are finally consummated.

Town Council, too, is to be congratulated on the financial support given this worthwhile project. Thus far several hundred dollars have been spent on the park the past couple of years and this has enabled those in charge to greatly enlarge the park by levelling the whole expanse to grade, while many of the old dead and dying shade trees have been removed and plans made to replace them with rapidly growing seedlings. A fountain will be placed in the centre of the park and within another year upper Witmer Park will be one of the beauty spots of the town, to which we can point with pride.

There is just one thing necessary to complete this improvement and make it what it should be from an artistic standpoint and that is a substantial sidewalk along the river front to connect with the present walk on the west side of the High School building. If this is not done it will be impossible to prevent traveling through the park and it will thus be impossible to prevent the tramping of a path or road through the grass which will detract greatly from the appearance of the park.

The matter has been given some thought by our public spirited citizens and from what we hear it ought to be possible, without much effort, to raise funds sufficient to build a walk through the park. It will cost a matter of $300 to extend the walk to Walnut street, and this should be done and will be done easily if some person or organization will only take the lead in the matter.

Source of Diamonds.

While some diamonds are obtained from river sands, most of them are obtained by mining. The diamonds occur largely in a soft volcanic rock known as "blue ground." This rock is taken from the mines spread out in the open air and allowed to decompose; it is afterward washed and separated.

That Word "Strike."

The first use of the word "strike" as applied to labor troubles, occurred in a London newspaper in 1763. In September of that year were numerous references to a great stoppage of labor in the coal fields, and the workers are said to have "struck out" for higher wages.—Indianapolis News.

BUSINESS AND TRADE

GENERAL BUSINESS CONDITIONS

The general situation in business has changed little, with business in August quiet. The bad earning statements of industrial companies and numerous dividend suspensions created a pessimistic atmosphere in financial circles. The American Sugar Refining Company, with 30,000 stockholders and a steady dividend record for thirty years, found it advisable in the face of conditions in the sugar business to discontinue dividend disbursements. The balance sheet of the Central Leather Company for June 30 shows a profit and loss deficit of $6,040,896, which compares with a surplus on March 31, 1920, of $30,840,498, a shrinkage of assets in 15 months of $36,881,394. Instances like these indicate the havoc that the fall of prices has wrought among the industrial companies. The common stock of the former company has sold down from a high of 118 1/2 last year to under 60 last week, and the common stock of the latter from 104 1/2 last year to 22 1/2. If the farmers who think they are the only sufferers from falling prices knew the facts about the losses of manufacturing and trading companies they would be less unhappy about their own. There has been misery enough to go all around.

The weakness of the whole list of stocks, notwithstanding the relaxation of credit conditions, has been indicative of little confidence in early business revival. The bond market last month was not so buoyant as in July, but showed good strength.

The demand for new money is light. While the boom was on and the tendency of prices was upward, money was in constantly increasing demand, for no matter what profits borrowers made nobody wanted to use any of them for so uninteresting a purpose as paying debts. That situation has changed. People now have their minds fixed on getting out of debt.

Bank clearings have been running about 26 per cent. below those of a year ago, which in view of the fall of prices is a remarkably good showing. Railway traffic has been helped by the big grain movement, but car-loadings are about 20 per cent. below last year. The earnings are making a better showing, due to the crop movement.

Iron and Steel.
The industries are very quiet, with a few exceptions. There is said to be a little more activity in iron and steel, but the past month has seen further reductions both in wages and prices. Under the latest wage scale adopted by the United States Steel Corporation unskilled labor on the basis of a ten-hour day will receive $3 per day, which is 50 per cent. above the wage paid at the beginning of 1915, but about 40 per cent. below the wages paid on February 1, 1920, when laborers were receiving $5.06 for a ten-hour day. The high rate was 153 per cent. above the 1915 level.

The following table shows wages of unskilled labor after each advance in wages since 1915, the percentage of each advance, and the cumulative advantage of each, together with statistics for the last three adjustments:

	Wages Per 10-Hr. Cent. Adv. '15 Rate.	P. C.

Textile Industries Active.
The textile industries as a group are an exception to the general situation. This is particularly true in cotton goods, which have blossomed out into something resembling a real boom. The explanation, probably is that, in the first place, owing to the long curtailment of production and the cautious attitude of buyers, dealers' stocks have been low.

DESERT ISLE IN BIG CITY

Woman Writer Satisfied With Her Residence in "Hell's Half Acre" in Philadelphia.

Katharine Haviland Taylor, the novelist, says she's found a desert island and peace right in the middle of Philadelphia. It happened quite accidentally. Recently she went apartment hunting with very little knowledge of the residential districts of Philadelphia. She found an apartment and rented it because there were two limousines out in front, and so she judged that the street was all right. One of those limousines belongs to a broker of rugs and paper, she learned later, and the other to an Italian peanut vendor. She had moved into the historic district called "Hell's Half Acre." "But I'm glad I was misled," says Miss Taylor. "I am not bothered by social obligations and I have lots of time for work. We're never bored. Shooting privileges go with every lease, and my vocabulary is enlarging all the time." Miss Taylor cannot be persuaded to move, for she is convinced that in this retreat she will be able to do more and better work than if she were living in a neighborhood socially "correct."

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSE-WIFE.

There are many tasks which seem of little importance to the woman who has kept house for year but which are a bugbear to those less experienced. The newly-wed who will not ask advice or is ashamed to confess her ignorance has many hard knocks to take as she journeys along in her housekeeping.

This is the time of year to wash or send to the cleaners, the winter blankets. Prepare a suds of good soap and put the blankets into a good big tub of water and have it as hot as the hands can bear, washing one blanket at a time, using a plunger or small suction hand washer. Those who use a power machine that does not rub the blankets will find that satisfactory. Women needs careful handling to keep it from fulling and shrinking. Never rub on a board but squeeze with the hands and wring through a loose wringer or simply squeeze out the water and let it drip on the line. A warm windy day is the best for drying blankets, then if they are brushed vigorously to raise the nap they will be fluffy and look like new. Fold and pack with a handful of cloves or a small piece of cotton saturated with turpentine to keep the moths from troubling them.

Heavy suits and wraps will not be used during the summer should be aired, brushed and put away in moth-proof bags or chests.

Leather chairs may be kept looking well by rubbing them with linseed oil and vinegar, using one part of vinegar to two of oil. Polish with a silk cloth after rubbing the oil mixture into the leather.

Fresh blood stains on wool may be removed if starch is applied at once, rubbing it in well, then when dry brush and all spots will disappear.

Silver if wrapped in cotton flannel and kept in an airtight receptacle with a piece of camphor will not tarnish.

There are two kinds of men—those who do what their wives tell them, and those who never marry.—Smart Set.

LIMING GETS TO BE HABIT

We were having a lime tour. Bill Jones had used up cartloads of ground limestone and had two more on the ground ready for the spreader. For thirty minutes, we had been looking over fields, noting results of liming and as we stopped, John Smith says to Bill:

"Do you really think it pays to lime, Mr. Jones?"

The crowd chuckled and Bill good-naturedly replied:

"No, I don't think it pays. The county agent just got me into the habit of doing it and I have to keep right on."

Sides bulged and the chuckles could no longer restrain the pent-up merriment. --Farm Life.

POULTRY

All hens ought to be carried for another year should be culled and marketed before the end of this month; put pullets in their laying quarters as soon as room can be made for them.

Keep the pullets separate from the old hens so they may be fed and handled separately.

Put the henhouses in shape for winter; repair leaks in the roof, see that there are no holes or cracks in the back or sides to cause drafts, replace all broken windows, and put new cloth on the curtain fronts if needed. Give the whole house a thorough cleaning, including the walls and ceiling, and spray the whole interior with a good disinfectant, or whitewash it.

If the henhouse has a dirt floor remove the top 3 or 4 inches and replace with fresh dry earth, sod or gravel.

Look out for crowding in the young stock. Crowding is apt to lead to the development of colds.

WIFE IS BEST ASSET

Then, too, there is much pathos that the county agent falls heir to. Husband and wife want to be progressive, feel tankage to the hogs, use fertilizers and the like and their wives won't let them; wives who want to make money out of their poultry and can't even get their husbands to make a self-feeder out of a store box. Boys who want in to the pig club and their parents won't let them.

My observation is that the farm that gets into the paying class must be managed by a real man and woman, by a real woman. Farming isn't like other work; manufacturers can frequently succeed financially, even thought their wives take no interest in the business but not so with farming. It's a family affair with all hands up and coming.

And farmers generally believe in their own game. I recently attended a club meeting where the pleasure of farming were debated. Even the budding Demostheneses failed to convince the judges that the tamely presented arguments of the affirmative did not show farming to have more pleasures than pains. --The County Agent, in Farm Life.

Tennis a World Sport, Says Donor of the Davis Cup

By DWIGHT F. DAVIS

Donor of the Davis Cup

(Written for the United Press)

Many people have asked me what the main object was I had in mind in establishing the Davis Cup.

The answer can be found in every city throughout the country. Twenty years ago, when the cup was established, tennis was practically unknown to the great majority of the people. Today hundreds of thousands of boys and girls, young men and young women, are playing tennis on courts established and maintained by the public authorities.

Lawn tennis is no longer a rich man's game--it is every man's game. Lawn tennis not only has become nationalized--it has become internationalized.

At first, two nations only--England and America--were sufficiently interested to compete for the cup. This summer, thirteen nations competed for the championship of the world in lawn tennis, and millions of people all over the earth will watch the results with intense interest. No other game in the history of the world has made such a record.

Golf, cricket, polo, baseball, and football have their devotees in a few countries at most. Interest in lawn tennis is becoming universal and its enthusiasts can now boast that lawn tennis is THE WORLD'S SPORT.

Sir Auckland Geddes, the English Ambassador to the United States, at the banquet of the United States Lawn Tennis Association last winter when the victorious American team was welcomed home from its conquest in Australia, made the interesting suggestion that these international contests have an important influence in promoting better understanding and good will among nations. It does not matter what race they come from, or what language they speak--sportsmen are brothers the world over. The visits of teams competing in international contests may sometimes do more good toward building up the entente cordiale between nations than the visits of official commissions and even of accredited ambassadors.

Of course, the Davis Cup did not of itself bring about this wonderful development in the interest of lawn tennis throughout the world. The credit for the development should go to the officials of the various national associations by whose energy, self sacrifice and enthusiasm the results have been accomplished. The cup merely started and focused this interest.

Intrinsically, the cup is of com-

ASAD STORY!

Osceola Steelers Refused To Be Frightened And Blanked Terriers

TERRIERS DIDN'T HAVE A LOOK-IN

Knetzer Had Their Goat And Kept It Tied Up All Through.

Better Luck Next Time

Manager Hoffman and his "Barrel-less Giants" went up to Osceola yesterday afternoon and were as pygmies in the hands of Jack Onslow and his scrappy Allegheny Steelers. It was a real battle, and when hostilities ended it was found that 14 Steelers had safely negotiated the circuit of the bases while our "Barrel-less Giants" failed to put even one run over.

Knetzer Again the Master.
Knetzer, Allegheny Steel's pitching star, was on the mound for Osceola, and that tells the story. The locals were powerless before him and never had a chance against him. They did threaten to score just once. In the first inning after Umpire Mackin had fanned Spiers on a couple of the frankest strikes in this league, Callahan banged out a triple to left. When Getz hit to Tyson, Callahan was caught between third and home and was an easy out. We never got a man past second after that session.

Taylor Again Gets His.
Manager Hoffman again sent Taylor to the mound against the Steelers and once more did the Osceola boys take his measure. Despite the awful work of Mackin, Taylor got by in good shape until the third inning, when a fusillade of hits resulted in five runs. Knetzer opened with a single, Tyson and Rudolph followed suit. Taylor hit Russell, forcing in Tyson and on Gill's single and Shaw's double the other four runs came in.

Callahan Takes Up Burden.
Left fielder Callahan relieved Taylor in the fourth. He got by in fine style in both the fourth and fifth innings, but the fireworks started for "Cal" in the sixth. Edmonson opened with a home run. Pearce was out, short to first. Anslow singled and stole second. Tyson walked. Rudolph hit for three bases and Russell's single sent him home with the fourth run of the inning. Four more runs were scored in the eighth on three singles, a sacrifice fly and Zerfuh's error at third and a passed ball by Hopper.

The score:—

Picked Up Along Third Base Line

A movement is on foot to have the Clearfield stores close next Wednesday afternoon instead of Thursday, in order that the clerks may be given an opportunity to see the Clearfield Athletics game. The DuBois Athletics defeated the House of David team yesterday afternoon 10 to 2.

The DuBois Athletics with Hartman and Knetzer of the regulars in the line up, won the first game of the 1921 series at this week's Piquette fair. They defeated Anita Tuesday afternoon 3 to 1. There are six teams in the race and the winner takes down $500 and 50 per cent of the gate at the deciding game.

First Fall Millinery Opening

Thursday, Friday
and Saturday,
Sept. 1st 2nd & 3rd

If perchance you imagine that early Fall Hats are freakish just visit our Autumn Millinery display. Never have Hats been more becomingly or attractively fashioned than this Season's modes. They show very deligh-tfully that the artistic designers may introduce the most startling innovations without anything bizarre or extreme even creeping in. Novelty of contour produces interestingly irregular shapes and new trimming effects are no less unexpected. Bristling quills, swooping feathers and jaunty ribbons are favorite garnitures.

All are cordially invited to this first showing.
